

The Federal Bar Association of the Southern District of Illinois presents a CLE featuring members of the Federal Judiciary and an evening of networking and fun.

Social Media and the Ethical Lawyer

We live in an age of social media. Over one billion people around the world use Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, LinkedIn and other online services to connect, communicate and create new content. Enterprising attorneys can use these tools to their advantage, but there are some important guideposts to follow and significant pitfalls to avoid. Can you pretend to be someone you're not? Do the rules allow you to search freely for information on jurors, witnesses and the opposing parties? Can the simple act of posting a comment, "liking" a post or "friending" another user jeopardize your case or even your law license? The answers to these questions may be more complicated than you think. Join our presenters as they discuss real-world examples and offer practical tips in an illuminating and entertaining look at the intersection of social media, the law and legal ethics.
